

SATURDAY 19 SEPTEMBER 2026

High Volume Meets Craft Experimentation: Constitution Tote Production

A team of professionals executed a 50-unit order of Constitution-themed tote bags by coordinating precise pattern cutting and printing. They also conducted targeted intervals to refine Kantha stitching methodologies and test new adjustments in real time.

Took part 4
Where aikyam space, Fort Kochi

Facilitators 1
Run by Shabana K H

The stitching unit operated at full momentum to fulfil a 50-unit order of Constitution-themed tote bags measuring 17.5" × 16", coordinating precise pattern cutting, printing preparation, and assembly. Parallel to bulk manufacturing, we dedicated targeted intervals to refine Kantha stitching methodologies, testing new adjustments in real time. Balancing structured deadline-driven production with exploratory craft experimentation ensured steady operational output while maintaining continuous technique development.